determination to celebrate in becoming style, at last, the house occupied by Mr. S. B. Dow, the superintendent of Whann & Co.'s phosphate eastern Railroad, took fire, and was burned to the ground. The woods in the neighborhood had been fired by some incautious person, and, the wind blowing very high, a spark was carried to the shed of the house, and set it on fire. All the tools, commissary stores, &c., belonging to the company, and stored in the house, were destroy-is amazing to their antagonists. But for downright jollity, manliness and good nature, who exunsurpassed, and intellectualy they are brilliant and profound. Moreover, they infuse an outdoor sociability into our daily life which is whole-our communities needs a corrective, and it is sup-for instance, are brim-full of health, fun and con-mirth, and are not cannish about their enjoy-ment. The ball is open to the public and will be liberally attended. We hope the jollity will not become too fast or furious towards the small

THE MARKET HALL MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The call for a meeting of citizens last evening, in opposition to the Greenville Railroad bill now ending in the State Senate, having had very limited publicity, found but a sorry response from "the public." At the appointed time, few persons besides the callers of the meeting were present. Trial Justice John G. Mackey was called to the chair, and as remarks began to be made by different speakers, a good many citizens, ac-tnated apparently more by curiestry than anything else, entered the hall, until there were about one hundred persons, chiefly colored, present. Early in the proceeding Mr. M. R. Delany arose, and in a blunt, practical speech, opposed the idea of a meeting like this assuming to repre sent the citizens of Charleston, and proposed that a committee of three, consisting of Captain F. W.

Dawson, Colonel T. Y. Simons and Mr. M. Fox, be appointed to call a general mass meeting. This resolution produced a stormy discussion. The points of order that were raised were most distracting.

Finally the chairman got on the table, and, enforcing his logic with repeated raps of his stick on the table, succeeded afterjawhile in convincing.
